BARRY KITAIN, LAULETTA BIRNBAUM ATTORNEY, TO TEACH POPULAR RUTGERS LAW SCHOOL CLASS

TURNERSVILLE, N.J. – Jan. 16, 2012 - Barry Kitain, a member of the Lauletta Birnbaum, L.L.C. law firm, has been reappointed as an Adjunct Professor at Rutgers School of Law - Camden, for the spring semester. With a passion for sharing his knowledge, and recognition of the need for law students to obtain concrete, real-world skills while in law school, Kitain took his idea for the course to his alma mater and developed content for the advanced seminar, "Transactional Document Drafting."

Now being offered for the second time, the class has expanded from 18 to 33 students (with a wait list) as word spread about the value of the class, the realistic method of instruction and the interesting homework assignments. As a senior attorney who has trained a lot of junior associates, Kitain noted that most are not getting the practical knowledge and skills they need while still in law school.

Kitain is a seasoned business lawyer who counsels public and private companies, as well as non-profit organizations, on a broad array of business and legal issues. He received his J.D., with honors, in 1990 from the Rutgers University School of Law where he was a Law Review editor. He was awarded an M.B.A. from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, in 1982, and a B.S. from Binghamton University in 1980.
